STATE FUNDS ASKED FOR CAMPBELL FOR HAMILTON AND MILTON AVENUES PAVING AND GRADING IMPROVEMENTS

City of Campbell made its first move Monday night to make use of state matching funds, to pave Hamilton Ave. in front of Rosemary School, and to set a new grade for Milton Ave. by passing resolutions to that effect.

Resolutions asking $275 for plans, and $3,425 for paving and grade change were read and adopted at City council meeting. Money asked for chapter 47 and chapter 20 funds will defray half of the city's cost of the paving and grading job. City Engineer Mark E. Thomas, authorized in the resolutions to negotiate for the city, said the plans would cost $550 and the paving costs would amount to $7,400.

City attny Joseph A. Bonacina referred back to city engineer for further conference with Kuehnis estates, five deeds from property owners on Hamilton Ave. granting easements to the city. Property owners would grant easements if they were allowed to connect to storm sewers in that area, according to provisions contained in the deeds.

Mayor Richard W. Morton and other members of the council present felt that that provision might create difficulties as far as the capacity of existing facilities was concerned. It was also pointed out that city should accept no deeds containing provisions which the city would have to accept.

W. S. Miller of 381 North Milaon Ave., spokesman for property owners on that Street, wanted to know the procedure to follow to put in sidewalks and curbs and gutters on Milton Ave. He said several of the property owners wanted sidewalks to keep children on the way to Rosemary School off the road.

He was advised by city engineer to present a petition signed by 60 percent of the property owners Mayor Morton suggested residents of Milton Ave. investigate the possibility of deeding the street to the city so that it would be entitled to its share of city street improvements.

In other action city council Monday night deferred for another week, scheduled public hearing on the application of O. C. Curry held over from last week pending reports of building and fire inspections. At meeting Monday fire inspectors report was ready; building was not. It will be continued next Monday.

FAITH IN FREEDOM RE-AWAKENS

All but the youngest among us can remember the days when the Fourth of July was the most exciting holiday of the year. It was a day for personal participation in fireworks displays and a day for sitting in the broiling sun responding to the orators' emotional appeals to our sense of patriotism.

In the last couple of decades, however, we've become more sedate and sophisticated. Fireworks displays are much safer to watch from a distance and oratory isn't considered in too good form. Emotions have been psychoanalyzed and patriotism, we are told by some of the more enlightened among us, is pretty old hat.

But even though we observe the anniversary of our country's independence more quietly than we used to, in most of us love of country still burns with undiminished warmth, and understanding of America's special ideals of individual freedom and opportunity still is deeply imbedded.

Indeed, there are signs all about us that a resurgence of old-fashioned patriotism is at hand. The sophisticated dogma that the ideals of our country's founding fathers are out of date in the modern world is finding fewer takers. The argument of the one-worlders that mere survival as vegetables is preferable to the risks that free men must take defending liberty falls on ears ever more hard of hearing.

We seem to be realizing, once again, what our grandparents never doubted: that there's nothing embarassing about patriotism. If that is true—and we devoutly hope it is true—the Fourth of July is coming into its own once again as the most glorious day of the year.

COMMUNITY CHEST FUND BUDGET SET AT $15,200 FOR COMING YEAR; OFFICIALS PICKED, STRATEGY SET

Budget for the Campbell Community Chest for 1953-54 is $15,200, it was announced at the regular meeting of the Chest council last week. Chest funds collected in Campbell are spent in their entirety on worthy local organizations.

This year's quota is $2,800 under the $18,000 budgeted for the past year, due to failure to meet last year's quota.

The budget committee chairmanned by Carolyn Coons, met earlier to consider the requests from receiving agencies and present the budget totaling $15,200.

After discussion and consideration it was accepted as arranged by the committee.

Organizations which will receive benefits from the funds collected this year are: Campbell Schools Milk and Lunch fund $1800; Campbell Library, $500; Boy Scouts, $4,500; Girl Scouts, $2350; Y. M. C. A. $850; Campfire Girls, $2,250; Visiting Nurse Association, $1000; Family Service Fund $1750 and United Defense Fund, $400.

At the regular meeting Monday in the office of Laurence J. Hill, at Campbell High School, the budget committee made up of representatives of various organizations within the city, elected officers and mapped out strategy for the coming drive in the Campbell area.

Carolyn Coons, representing Campbell Footlighters, chairmanned the budget committee and was assisted by Mrs. William E. Gould, representing Campbell Countrywomen's club, Miss Janette Collins, of Sigma Club, Al Ellis of Campbell Lions Club and Mrs. Elmer Jones, representing St. Lucy's Women.

Work of the budget committee consisted of making and mailing forms to receiving agencies for an estimate of their requirements for the coming year. When the forms returned, it was the work of the committee to pare requests down and to apportion the amount that could reasonably be expected to come in from the forthcoming drive.

Officers of this year's community Chest are: President Edward F. Tablak, representing Campbell Y. M. C. A., Visiting Nurse Association and Family service of which organizations he is a member of the board of directors, Robert Free, vice-president, who represents Campbell Girl Scouts; and Dorothy Ellis, secretary-treasurer, representing Campbell Business and professional Women's Club.

Gertrude Jones has been appointed this year's Community Chest drive secretary. There will be no drive chairman as such in this year's campaign, Ed Tablak said. Instead aided by publicity from the local press, by distribution of approximately 500 colored posters made by children of Campbell Elementary schools during the school year, and assisted by volunteer workers assigned to schools and school areas. This year's drive committee hopes to reach by volunteer contributions of Campbell residents and organizations, the goal of $15,200. Sometime in September an office will be opened in the Campbell area to solicit contributions not otherwise collected, committee members said.

GEAR ERROR SENDS AUTO INTO WINDOW

Campbell Police Department came up with a story Monday night at 11 p. m. in which a Campbell business establishment came off second best in a tangle with an automobile driven by a local resident.

Frank J. Linane, of 170 California St., driver of a 1952 Oldsmobile "88" honestly didn't know where he was going when he drove his car through the plate glass window of Aero Pharmacy, on 44 South Winchester Ave. Monday night, according to local police.

"It happened this way," Linane patiently explained to officer Jerry F. O'Connell who arrived in response to Linane's telephone call. "I got into the car turned on the headlights, and looked to the rear. But when I stepped on the gas, I found I had it in first instead of reverse."

"The next thing I knew I was parked in the cosmetic department."

O'Connell said the plate glass window was completely demolished as well as the bottom casement of the pharmacy, operated by Richard Salice.

Only damage to the vehicle, O'Connell said, was shattered lens on the right front headlight.

O'Connell said Linane was very cooperative. He immediately reported the accident and offered to make restitution, O'Connel said.

Purpose of the course is to recruit volunteer aid for the various health, welfare, social service, and recreation agencies throughout the county and to acquaint these potential volunteers with the type of work done by each agency.

"These agencies are doing a tremendously important job in community life, and we hope through our orientation course, to show prospective volunteer workers just how vitally needed are their services," Mrs. McManus points out.

The Campbell area has provided many volunteer aides in the past, among them Mrs. A. W. (Evelyn) Cobb, 266 W. Campbell Avenue, who has been active in the Volunteer Bureau since September, 1952. Besides serving as a Play Lady at a local hospital, she has performed clerical duties for health groups and has done driving for the blind. Interested individuals may call the Bureau, CYpress 2-1646, or visit the office, 325 Security Building, San Jose, from 11 to 3 Tuesdays and Fridays. Both organizations and individuals are urged to volunteer, as the need for help is always great.

REPRESENTATIVE IN CONGRESS
TENTH DISTRICT, CALIFORNIA

I usually try to keep these column in a lighter vein. Last week, however, something so unusual happened that I feel cmpelled to invade the territory of the political columnist with some very serious comments.

Last week the House Rules Committee voted to bring a bill extending the excess profits tax to the Floor of the House for debate without that bill being considered by the House Ways and Means Committee. This was an unprecedented action and involves some basic principles of representative government. It is serious medicine. In this column I don't wish to discuss the merits or demerits of the excess profits tax. Instead I would like to discuss the serious parliamentary questions involved.

According to the Constitution all revenue bills must originate in the House of Representatives and the rules of that body require that they must be referred to the Committee on Ways and Means. The Rules Committee, however, has the right to determine the conditions under which a bill passed by any legislative committee can come to the floor. For example, they prescribe the length of debate and whether or not the bill can be amended (in the case of a tax bill the rule is always "closed", i. e., no amendments are allowed). In this case the Rules Committee, acting in its capacity to regulate conditions for the consideration of a bill, actually conceived a bill it was only authorized to regulate.

No one on Capitol Hill likes this method of legislating, including the Rules Cmmittee itself, but Dan Reed of New York, chairman of the Ways and Means Committee, had openly defied President Eisenhower and had refused to allow his committee to meet to consider the bill for extending the excess profits tax. This action in itself is a major violation of the principles of the committee system. Of course, a majority of the membership of the committee could have signed a petition making it mandatory for Chairman Reed to call a meeting, but Democrats on the committee refused to sign along with some Republicans. So it was necessary for a second wrong to be committed in order to correct the first.

The issue here is not just the excess profits tax. It is a question of whether one man should thwart the will of a majority of the member of Congress and secondly is it right to correct one wrong by committing another? These are serious questions that should be answered—NOW.

Interesting sidelight of the hearing before the Rules Committee was the reaction of the public and particularly the dozens of reporters who crowded into the hot and sticky committee room. I got the impression that many of them were not concerned about the parliamentary principles involved, the merits or demerits of the excess profits tax, or the good of the country. Side comments and facial expressions indicated that they were all very happy that the Republican party had gotten into a family fight. The argument widened the breach between the ultra conservative GOP'ers and the younger progressive members of the party, and should serve as a warning to the Republican Party to wash its dirty linen in private instead of in public. If they don't it will be the 80th Congress all over again which won all the arguments but lost the election.

The jobs that come in cans

The American Can Company hasn't yet worked out a practical container for packing jobs and economic security. We make cans—we do no canning.

But, by making better cans, we have actually created job opportunities in many different fields.

All kinds of things—foods and beverages, paints and varnishes, tobacco and tennis balls—keep better, are more convenient and easier to use when they are packed in the right kind of container.

So, markets for these products expand. Thousands of new, well-paid jobs open up, and incomes climb.

In fact, whole new businesses have been able to get started because a suitable can was developed to hold a product. You probably know of manufacturing plants right in California that owe their existence to the industry.

Creating new jobs is only one example of what America has accomplished in our free, competitive way of doing business. People working together, playing together and living together bring social and economic gains to all.

And such teamwork between our people and our business system promises greater prosperity and more jobs for our future.

CANINE BLUE BLOOD. . . "Klaus Von Engeberg" aristocratic miniature pinscher owned by Mr. and Mrs. Engemann of Foxworthy Ave. accepts as a matter of course her blue ribbon won as best of breed in the Contra Costa County Kennel Club Dog Show Sunday June 28. For dog's owner, Eric Engemann it's a different matter. He's all excited about his pup winning a blue ribbon on his very first showing. Vital statistics: 11" high, 18" long, weight seven pounds. Sire: Bodo Vom Euldastrand; Dam: Judy Von Homeyer.

Rare Dog Breed Wins Blue Ribbon

While Mr. and Mrs. Eric Engemann of Foxworthy Ave. are beginners at dog show exhibits, it wasn't beginner's luck when their eight-month old miniature pinscher won the blue ribbon as best of breed in the Lafayette showing, Sunday, June 28.

The pup, "Klaus Von Engeberg" boasts championship blood and comes from a long line of canine aristocracy. His mother was Judy Von Homeyer and his sire was Bodo Vom Euldastrand, who has hobnobbed in the best kennels of Kassel, Germany.

It was a real thrill for the Engemann's who have lived in this area for the past three years, to win the best of breed prize on their very first showing they said. Mrs. Engemann explained that the miniature pinscher is the toy breed of the Doberman pinscher and is very rare in central and northern California. She said only seven other entries in that class had been entered at the Lafayette showing.

Bodo Vom Euldastrand, sire of the Engemann's prize winning pup, was brought to this country by Mrs. Gladys Cornell of San Jose, whose husband was an army officer with the occupation forces in Germany ofter World War II.

Farmers Warned To Check Signs Of Nematodes

RIVERSIDE, July 1.—Farmers who suspect their fields or orchards are infested with nematodes should check the evidence with farm advisors or agricultural commissioners before taking corrective action.

This advice comes from Dr. Richard C. Baines, associate plant pathologist on the Riverside campus of the University of California.

He points out that there are so many different kinds of nematodes and such a wide variety of plants infested by them that in many cases only microscopic analysis by trained personnel can definitely determine presence of the minute pest.

For example, the lesion nematode, which attacks citrus, walnut, cherry and peach trees and a number of shrubs and plants, may cause only slight visible damage to infested roots.

The garden or root-knot nematode produces symptoms ranging from small knots to large swellings on several thousand varieties of plants.

Some of these lumps, however, can easily be confused with the nodules commonly found on the roots of legumes, such as beans, peas and clover.

Failure to find nematodes in the roots of one kind of plant does not mean that there is not another species attacking other plants in the same field, Dr. Baines warns. Different types of soils also complicate the problem.

COSTS PER GRADE FOR SCHOOL PUPILS REVIEWED BY TAX ASSOCIATION

Current expenditures per pupil in the larger elementary school districts in Santa Clara county were higher in 11 districts and lower in 1 district for 1951-52 than for 1950-51, a study of the spending per pupil by the larger elementary school districts in California, recently made public by California Taxpayers' association, shows.

Among the larger elementary districts in the county, total current spending and teacher salaries per pupil in average daily attendance for the two years were as follows:

	Total Current		Teacher Salaries
District Name	1951-52	1950-51	1951-52	1950-51

"Largest single item of current expenses in schools is, as it should be, teacher salaries," the association observed.

"School districts should not be exempt from the same careful scrutiny of expenditures and budgets as any other level of government," the Taxpayers' group declared.

"With the huge increase in state support which goes to local school districts for 1953-54 for the first time, even greater care than usual should be given to school budgets."

Modernizing Given Boost By Greater Ease of Getting The Necessary Financing

One of the major factors causing an upward spurt in the modernizing of American homes is the increasing ease with which homeowners can get funds for this purpose.

An article in the first edition of Home Modernizing outlined the principal sources of modernizing money available to the home-owner—FHA Title I loans, open-end mortgages and mortgage refinancing.

In use for 20 years, Title I loans have financed more than $6,000,000,000 in home repairs and modernization. Simple and easy to obtain, the Title I is ideal for smaller projects, where $100 to $1,000 is needed (the limit is $2,500). There is no red tape, and the homeowner or his contractor will normally be paid the money within a few days of the application.

There is no mortgage, no costly title examination to delay matters, no extra charges or service fees. Title I loans are paid back monthly over a period of six months to three years. The interest rate—five per cent—is uniform throughout the nation.

Similar to the Title I loan is the Veterans Administration home improvement loan. The interest rate (four per cent) is lower and the repayment period longer. Few lending institutions, however, have adopted this type.

Open-End Mortgage

One of the really important steps toward bringing modernizing within reach of the average homeowner is the open-end mortgage. It is a mortgage allowing new loans or advances, with the borrower and lender agreeing that the original mortgage will secure the future advances as well as the original loan. This eliminates the delay and expense of a complete new loan.

The trend toward wider use of open-end mortgages was given a big push last year when the Dime Savings Bank of Brooklyn (which originates great numbers of mortgages) announced that it would henceforth have an open-end clause in all its mortgages.

George C. Johnson, president of the bank, said the plan will make terms considerably easier for the homeowner contemplating modernizing.

"Instead of borrowing on a short-term note and repaying it within one to three years, families can spread payments over the term the original mortgage has yet to run," he explained. He gave this example:

A homeowner has an original five per cent $10,000 mortgage to run for 20 years. With monthly payments of $66 on principal and interest, he has paid off a little more than $2,000 at the end of six years. By this time his family has grown so he needs more room. It will take $2,000.

He fills out a simple form at the bank. If the application is approved, the bank hands him a check for $2,000; in turn, he pays $30 to cover costs of legal work, title insurance and other incidentals. He agrees to repay this $2,000 loan and the interest on it with regular monthly payments of $16.58 instead of the $63.88 per month required on three-year modernization loans.

The $16.58 added to the $66 monthly payments on the original mortgage brings his total payment each month to $82.58.

Mortgage Refinancing

If a homeowner is planning a big project and other financing is unavailable or impracticable, he can turn to new mortgage financing. The problem, if his place is "free and clear," is simply to get the best mortgage terms available.

If he already has a mortgage, however, the solution may be refinancing—getting a new mortgage large enough to pay off the old one and to provide the money needed for modernizing at the same time. Refinancing requires two or three weeks for processing (including a complete title examination), and the homeowner will also run into the usual servicing costs of a new mortgage.

Automobile manufacturers say that in 1940 there was one car in use for every five Americans. They estimate that in 1953 there will be a car registered for every three and a half persons.

THE FARMER'S CORNER

By Ralph H. Taylor
(Executive Secretary, Agricultural Council of California)

COTTON

Ezra Benson ,Secretary of Agriculture, is faced with a problem which may make him wish he had remained a private citizen before he is through with it.

It has to do with the production of cotton.

Under the planned economy the Eisenhower admisistration inherited from the New Deal, our farmers are raising more cotton than can be profitably disposed of.

Consequently, Secretary Benson must decide not only how much cotton may be raised but by whom.

For the South, which for 150 years has been our major producer of this basic product, is being given real production competition by California and Arizona growers and its planters face serious economic adjustments unless it can maintain its position.

Nobody wants to hurt these southern farmers but on the other hand the rights of California must be considered.

California farmers can not only raise cotton more economically than can the Southerners but raise a far better grade and under any sound economic system these are the people who should be given the preference.

DISCRIMINATION

But the planners in Washington don't see it that way. They propose for this year a total allotment of 17,500,000 acres. This acreage would be parceled out under a formula which would be favorable to the southern planters.

Under it, specifically, California cotton men would have their total crop curtailed by 50 percent at a loss of $200,000,000.

ONE BILLION DOLLARS

L. B. Nourse, Manager of the California Planting Cotton Seed Distributors, recently pointed up the problem. He said: "California is faced with a 700,000 acre cut, or 50 percent of the cotton planted in 1952 and 1953. This will mean a direct loss to cotton growers of about $200,000,000 in California.

"Translated into jobs, purchasing power, retail trade and general business, it approaches a staggering sum, up to one billion dollars, depending on the factor used."

Such a slash, Nourse claims, would result in a complete reorganization of agricultural planning in California.

"Large scale operators will inevitably turn to other crops to protect their investments. Small producers of such crops will find themselves in competition with the big operators.

"It would seem unjust to curtail production in the states which have an expanding base when other states would have less curtailment because their cuts would have a foundation on a diminishing base."

WESTERN GROWTH

Here he was referring to the fact the formula the Department of Agriculture is using is based on years when the South was curtailing its production of cotton and California and Arizona were extending their operations because of this economic advantage.

The problem will be aired before Senate and House' hearings in Washington on June 30 and July 1, at which time Congressman Oakley Hunter of Fresno will offer a new formula, which, in his opinion would be more equitable.

This cotton situation points up the problem of attempting to control land use by governmental edict. Political pressures by regional representatives do not evolve the type of sound procedures that make for long-range economic stability in the Nation.

Secretary Benson's task of harmonizing regional conflicts, yet adhering to sound economic principles, and at the same time complying with the law under which he must operate, is a most difficult one. The Secretary will undoubtedly discuss this problem at his forthcoming meeting in Fresno on July 16.

STATE FISH AND GAME NEWS

SACRAMENTO—Recent experiments in Alberta, Canada, to determine the rate of survival of hatchery-reared trout of catchable size may contain a hint for California's anglers who believe stocking more and more catchables is the answer to increased creel limits from waters of this state.

The Bulletin of the Sport Fishing Institute reports that Dr. Richard B. Miller tagged a large number of catchable-sized hatchery trout, weighed them and placed them in enclosures in Gorge Creek, where he kept them under observation.

Between 30 and 50 per cent died shortly after they were released. Two-year-olds which survived the early weeks lost weight all summer and had all died by late fall. Of the 3-year-olds, 1:5 per cent survived until the following summer.

"We might as well face it," the Bulletin comments, "rearing trout to catchable size costs money.

"To get a maximum return for that money the fish must be plantd at times when, and in places where, a considerable percentage will be harvested. That means planting them just before, and during, the fishing seasons, and in easily accessible, heavily-fished sections of the streams."

Oregon's State Game Director, Phil J. Schneider, commenting on the Alberta test, said the "put and take" policy of stocking catchables in Oregon streams for immediate hauling out by fishermen results in more fish caught but that the process is expensive.

The Oregon experience, Schneider states, indicates: 1) Lakes held the best hope of continued good fishing, and 2) Hatcheries can only supplement natural spawning as an aid to larger catches.

Test Your I. Q.

1. When did the state of Virginia take back her part of the District of Columbia?
2. What was the origin of the Washington Monument?
3. During the Renaissance, what invention was the reason for knowledge suddenly becoming a widespread thing available to many people?

4. What is the meaning of the word Boer and to what people is it applied?
5. What is the Edward J. Neil Boxing Trophy and how did it originate?

ANSWERS TO
Test Your I. Q.

1. In 1846 President James K. Polk announced that 39 square miles ceded to the federal government by the state of Virginia in 1790 had been returned. The Act of Retrocession permitted the citizens to decide this question.
2. In 1833 the Washington National Monument Society was organized. A fund-raising campaign produced about $75,000. The cornerstone was laid July 4, 1848. In 1859 money ran out and it stood half finished until President Grant ordered it finished by the Corps of Engineers. Dedicated Feb. 22, 1885, it was opened to the public in 1888.
3. The invention of the art of printing with movable type made books cheaper and easily available to the poor. Learning was suddenly no longer the exclusive property of the nobility.
4. It is a word of Dutch origin meaning farmer. It was given to the early Dutch colonists of South Africa.
5. It originated in 1938 in honor of Edward J. Neil, famous sports writer killed in Spain while covering the Spanish Revolutionary War. It is awarded each year by the Boxing Writers' Association of America to the person doing most for the sport. First winner was Jack Dempsey.

ARTHRITIS?

I have been wonderfully blessed in being restored to active life after being crippled in nearly every joint in my body and with muscular soreness from head to foot. I had Rheumatoid Arthritis and other forms of Rheumatism, hands deformed and my ankles were set.

Limited space prohibits telling you more here, but if you will write me, I will reply at once and tell you how I received this wonderful relief.

ORLAND, Gleen County—One of the largest fines of the year—$1,250—has been collected on a fish and game case in the Orland court of Judge James O. Kibby.

Wendell O. Randall, Chico carpenter, made the payment. He was charged by State fish and game wardens with taking pheasants during a closed season, hunting with a firsarms silencer, hunting without a license, carrying a loaded gun in a car and shooting from a motor vehicle.

ISLETON, Sacramento County—The seven black bass caught earlier this month by Ernest Chang of Terminous and bought by Forney Lee, operator of Lee's Bait Shop in Isleton, made state and county fish and game preservation funds richer by $650.

For buying a game fish and possessing two over the limit, Lee was fined $400 and given a 60-day suspended jail sentence by Judge Milo Dye. Chang was fined $250 by Lodi Judge Robert Bainbridge.

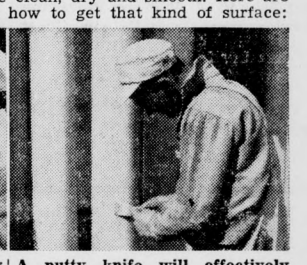
Quality of Exterior Paint Job Depends On Surface

The condition of the surface under an exterior paint job determines the appearance and durability of the paint. The general rule is that the surface should be clean, dry and smooth. Here are tips from Home Modernizing on how to get that kind of surface:

If the old paint is only slightly rough, sandpaper will do.



A putty knife will effectively scrape away small areas.

Stubborn areas of badly worn paint can be removed with a blowtorch. Such equipment should be handled only by an expert, however.

Open joints like those next to window frames should be filled with a caulking compound before painting — to prevent moisture seepage.

Westwood Youths Conduct Service

Rev. Ernest Tremayne, minister of the Cambrian Park Methodist Church is elated with the landscaping project carried out by the group of young people forming the caravan from the Westwood Methodist Community Church of Los Angeles, and the Cambrian Park youth group.

Two caravans from the Westwood church have been working in this area. The other group were assigned to the Alum Rock Methodist church.

Objectives of the caravans, composed of high school seniors and college freshmen, are to render active services: while the local youths have an opportunity to learn leadership.

The Westwood youths were accompanied by Fay and Walter Wollaston, experienced counsellors in this field.

The Sunday worship services on June 28th were conducted by the Westwood youths and their topic of the day was the International Work Camp of Mexico.

On Sunday evening, a potluck dinner honoring Rev. and Mrs. Ernest Tremayne was held at the new church and the youths were praised for their worthy accomlishments.

WASHINGTON AND "SMALL BUSINESS"

By C. WILSON HARDER

Official Washington is concerned over the wave of pessimism that swept nation with Korean peace talks. The spread of the idea that peace means a depression, can, officials say, talk the nation into depression.

A counter-propaganda program is discussed, but so far no one seems in agreement as to the direction it should take.

C. W. Harder

The probable truth is that there is no agreement on the measures needed to maintain a healthy economy.

Actually, the United States should be entering into an era of even higher prosperity than at any time in the past. That is the opinion of many economists.

This school of thought points to the fact that home ownership in the United States is at an all time high. And it is well known that far more money in repairs, remodelling, in fact for everything from lawn seed to pianos is spent on owner-occupied homes than on rental homes. Economists also point to high auto ownership whose servicing produces a huge business volume.

Neither do they feel that the U. S. is consuming anywhere near the goods and services that it can. Even during a year of so-called Korea prosperity, almost one-third of the nation's families have incomes of less than $2,000 per year, over 60% of the families have incomes of less than $4,000 per year. There is still a great market to be developed by increasing the average annual family income.

What, then, the question is asked, creates the fear that without war, or preparation for war, the U. S. economy will collapse?

The answer is that too much of the business is controlled by monopoly practices, by manufacturer owned retail outlets, by business practices which deprive independent business, the major furnisher of employment in the nation, from expanding.

Many in government still believe that a major plant expansion of $2 billion per year, as was evidenced during the Korean war, furnishes prosperity. Yet, the expansion of a few huge industrial plants is but a drop in the bucket to the expenditures that could be made by the building of new independent stores, factories, and the remodelling of existing establishments.

However, with the control of business falling into fewer and fewer hands due to cutthroat competitive tactics, employment producing independent enterprises either fall by the wayside, or die aborning.

At the same time, pessimists, and those seeking rigid controls over the economy, cry that measures must be taken to stop inflation before the economy collapses.

Yet government itself has fashioned the backbone of inflation through taxation. Last year the nation spent $81 billion on food and clothing; but Federal, state, and local taxes cost the public $84.6 billion. There can be no assured prosperity when taxes take more of the people's income than food and clothing.

Many panaceas are advanced.

Yet many in Washington feel no solution is possible until enforcement of anti-trust laws eliminates price fixing competition and taxes are cut. There has never been any substitute for a completely free and open economy in producing prosperity.

Sewer District Hearing Continues Tonight At 7:30

Sanitation District No. Four will meet tonight at 7:30 p. m. in Moorpark School to continue the public hearing on District Sanitation Sewer project 1953-1 which includes Rosemary Lane in Campbell.

At the meeting last Thursday in the Campbell office on East Campbell Ave. attended by over 100 interested residents, so many protests were received that officials couldn't determine the effect on the project. Meeting tonight is to continue the hearing and to tabulate the protests. If more than 50 percent of the property owners object to the district the street will be omitted from the district according to Campbell manager Steve Goodman and engineer Theo Perrott.

At the last meeting bids for the sewer project were opened at the Campbell office by the district engineer. Total low bid was $274,-118.01. This figure, according to district engineer was approximately $4300 under the engineer's estimate for the project.

Also at last meeting Sanitation District No. Four entered into a temporary contract with the City of Campbell to provide sewer services on the basis of a final contract to be agreed upon.

Services to be performed under the temporary contract, reviewed by Mayor Richard W. Morton at City Council Monday evening include: issuance of sewer connection permits ,inspection and approval of plans for new sewers, and maintainance of sewers once connected .

Sanitation District No. Four and City of Campbell are now preparing a contract between the district and City of Campbell.

DEFENSE BUDGET TO BE AIRED ON GUBSER TALK

Congressman Charles S. Gubser announced that in his broadcast from Washington this week, he will interview Congressman Gerald R. Ford, Jr. (Michigan), a member of the Appropriations Subcommittee studying the Defense Department budget. The proposed Defense budget, particularly as it pertains to the Air Force, is highly controversial and will be subject to attack on the House Floor. The program will be unrehearsed and informal and it it is expected that Ford will advocate even greater Air Force cuts than those recommended by Secretary Wilson.

THEATRE BILL REVIEWED BY D. A. OFFICE

In spite of a raid on Campbell Theatre last Wednesday night in which showings of "Bedroom Fantasy," "Strip Tease Girls," "Parisian Nights," and "Wild Women" were ordered halted by Campbell officer Jerry F. O'Connell, on complaint of citizens, Deputy District Attorney M. L. Hawley said yesterday there will be no prosecution "at this time."

O'Connell stopped the 9 p.m. showing when Campbell residents objected to the type of films being viewed by minors.

"There is no question that the films," Hawley said in a prepared statement to the Press, "were in bad taste, incredibly boring, and unworthy of being viewed by minors."

"If these films are shown in the area again and minors are in the audience, the theaters showing the films will be subject to the charges of contributing to the delinquency of minors," he continued.

"The question of what films may be lewd and lascivious under Penal Code Section 311 is a matter of individual judgment. Our office regrets that movie managers have sought to re-fill vacant theatres with films that some may consider offensive enough to subject the theatres to prosecution under Section 311 of the Penal Code," he said.

"We further regret that people will pay good money to see them when the same satisfaction can be had by looking at old National Geographic magazines or spending a day at Santa Cruz Beach during the swimming season."

In 1952, 1,857 forest fires burned an estimated 13,632 acres in Michigan.

Immigrant Trail Pack 30 Theme

In accord with their summer outing along the immigrant trail at Dardanelles, the boy scouts of pack 30 chose "The Immigrant Trail" as the theme of their recent potluck dinner at the San Tomas cafetorium.

Each patrol of pack 30 decorated their table with various scenes depicting the theme.

A silver trophy was awarded to the Kodiak patrol for its decor of covered wagons and stagecoach and ox-team placecards.

The Kudo patrol, comprised of the staff, was given a special award for its replica of an immigrant grave with lighted tombstones.

Other tables represented trading posts besieged by Indians and a relief map of an immigrant trail.

Following the dinner, a program was presented by the scouts with Scoutmaster Harry Hunter as master of ceremonies, assisted by Dave Swan, Kenneth Wilson and Errie Shuart, assistant leader. Humorous skits, a rendition of "Ghost Riders in The Sky" by the Explorer Quartet, and piano selections by Gary Standinsh and Douglas Wilson, were followed by a community sing.

Mrs. Wm. Cahill, chairman of the successful dinner, was presented a trophy by scout master Hunter for her worthwhile services.

THE CRACKER BARREL

Dear Friends,

The other day I was passing a store and I saw a sign like this, 'Meat at Wholesale Prices.' I thought to myself — "now that don't seem right, 'cause a guy has to make a little profit to stay in business. Now, we ain't claimin' to sell for wholesale, 'cause we don't do business that way. We do make some profit. Any clear thinkin' individual knows that a retail store cannot sell at wholesale prices and stay in business unless there is some underhanded business going on; and brother believe me, there ain't no business except legitimate business at our place.

Well—your patience with us is outstanding. We have the best customers in the world. The last few days we've been kinda torn up re-modeling but it will all come out in the wash and then we'll be able to serve you better than ever.

Folks, HAMBURGER is still 3 lbs. for $1.00 here . . .

Wieners are only 49c a lb.

CRESCENT BACON this weekend — while it lasts, 49c a pound.

By the way — Any of you people play a guitar or violin or banjo or accordion? I'd like to organize a western band to play religious music. I pick a guitar myself and I like Western music. If you do and are interested, come in and talk to Art, will you?

And groceries—we are getting a better selection all the time, so come in and shop and save . . .

Sincerely,
